Question 9 Extended Response
If illegal immigrants try so hard to get into the US, they should be able to get citizenship.
If they are willing to work for it. People who are refugees deserve to become citizens.
Because many of them need the opportunities that they can get by becoming citizens. Most illegal immigrants work hard and should not be kicked out of the country for that. All people deserve a chance to prosper.
Some immigrants do, but some don't. Some need freedom and money to live. Others are criminals that don't deserve it.
Illegal immigrants made this country what it is today.
We must make it possible for them to stay in the US by paying taxes.
Why should we give citizenship to lawbreakers?
They have feelings too! Haven't you ever seen those crying mothers when they are taken away from their children?
We can't be a model of freedom or opportunity (like we were intended to be) if we kick hard working people out!
Because other people, like a Polish woman I know, worked hard for their citizenship.

Question 10 Extended Reponse
Make all immigrants take a test and, if they pass, they can come into the US.
Stricter border patrol, but less citizenship passes.
Give amnesty to all immigrants with no criminal record!
Immigrants must be fully checked before entering the country.
Give anyone who hasn't committed a felony or broken the law a pardon.
All illegal immigrants that are caught and wish to stay their back taxes and keep paying taxes when they are official citizens.
Nothing. I would enforce them.
I don't know.
Immigrants should earn citizenship through community service. Their families in the US, including the elderly and children, also earn citizenship when they do. (They means the mother/father or daughter/son.)
I would say if they are not in the US legally, they must leave and stay out of the US.
