France and Italy, respectively, requesting the production of certain documents in the possession of European corporations, NEC Computers SAS and ACER Italy Srl (D.I. 1225 and 1226);

WHEREAS, by correspondence dated March 30, 2009, the Special Master requested that the European Commission (“EC”) inform the Court of its position on the discoverability of such documents;

WHEREAS, on April 23, 2009, the Special Master entered an order recommending that the Court issue the Letters Rogatory (D.I. 1730);

WHEREAS, on April 27, 2009, the Court entered orders issuing the Letter Rogatory to the appropriate judicial authority in Italy (D.I. 1745) and the appropriate judicial authority in France (D.I. 1746);

WHEREAS, the order issuing the Letter Rogatory to the French judicial authority (D.I. 1746) provides, in part, that the French authority “direct NEC SAS to produce the requested documents to the Special Master, who will hold them pending receipt of the European Commission’s response and issuance of a final ruling on whether AMD should be permitted to inspect and copy the requested documents”;
